Abstract

The current research is aimed at analyzing the axis of resistance in the period after the command of Sardar Soleimani, and the authors' effort in this research is to present a worthy analysis based on the theory of Islamic resistance in the thought of the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution, Ayatollah Khamenei. The method of this research is descriptive-analytical and with library tools. The hypothesis of the research indicates that since the beginning of the formation of the axis of resistance until now, some time has passed since the martyrdom of Sardar Soleimani; It can be seen that based on the theory of Islamic resistance of Imam Khamenei, the idea of Islamic resistance on the growth and development of the power axis of resistance in the region and the world has been meaningful. Therefore, the idea of Islamic resistance has always opened a powerful path for the axis of resistance, but the martyrdom of Sardar Soleimani has caused the axis of resistance to continue this path, which is to fight for the right and to destroy falsehood, in confronting the arrogance of the world and the Zionist regime, more determined and powerful than Act first. In this regard, the theory of Islamic resistance is based on the formation of the three axes of power "resistance", "defense" and "security" during the command period of General Soleimani and the formation of power in the axes of "hostile alliance" and "harmony of power" with the axis of Islamic resistance in the post period. Since the martyrdom of Sardar, it has been touched in the resistance front. The attack on the Ain al-Assad military base, the withdrawal of American soldiers from Iraq, the unification of regional countries such as Iraq, Lebanon, Yemen and Iran with the axis of resistance and finally the expansion of the geopolitics of Islam in the region, concrete examples of the development of power based on the elements of power in the theory of Islamic resistance in the period It is your testimony.
