

Business relations of Muslims with European countries from the point of view of Sheikh Baha'i, Imam Khomeini and Shahid Beheshti

Mohammad Ali Nazari Sarmazeh^{1*}, Maryam Heydari²

Abstract

One of the priorities in managing countries is to regulate trade relations with other countries; In the management style of Islam, these relationships are legitimate and permissible by maintaining principles such as the principle of negation of mustache. In this article, the commercial relationship between Muslims and European countries from the perspective of three Muslim thinkers; That is, Sheikh Baha'i, Imam Khomeini and Martyr Beheshti have been examined; The findings of this research, which was conducted with a descriptive-analytical method, show that this issue has been the concern of jurists, rulers, and Shia thinkers, including these three great Islamic thinkers. Trade relations with European countries during the time of Shah Abbas Safavi were largely approved by Sheikh Bahai; Because he was Sheikh-ul-Islam of his government, and his opinion was sought on small and large issues, and from the point of view of Imam Khomeini and Ayatollah Shahid Behshi, these relations are legitimate and accepted by protecting the rights of Muslims and by emphasizing Islamic principles and values has been.

Keywords: Muslims, European countries, Sheikh Baha'i, Imam Khomeini, Shahid Beheshti.

1. Assistant Professor, Department of Islamic Education, Shahrekord University: ma.nazari@sku.ac.ir

2. Master's student in the law of registration of deeds and real estate, Islamic Azad University of Mimeh Iran, Azad University.

* Corresponding Author: ma.nazari@sku.ac.ir

Received: 16/08/2022 Accepted: 01/10/2022